Must Get Permit Before Starting Outdoor Fires

Now comes the season of the year when the urge comes over many to "start a fire and burn over" whatever appeals to the individual. Every year our fire department is called out to extinguish blazes that have got out of hand.

State laws are explicit on this practice. You must first secure from the Conservation Department (locally located in Boyne City) a permit to start the fire. Doing this will obviate a lot of unpleasantness. 16a3

Chamber of Commerce Wants Local Data For Information Office

The Chamber of Commerce plans to maintain a complete Information Office this summer for the convenience of the traveling public, and the citizens of this community.

This office will have on file information relative to bus, train, plane and boat; cabins, rooms, cottages; roads and streams and fishing sites; church, lodge and club meetings; in fact the answers to a thousand and one questions that strangers particularly want to know.

If you have a room, a cabin, or a cottage to rent, give this office the information that a customer wants to know — how many it will accomodate, if housekeeping facilities are available, if boat is furnished, linen, water, heat, light and the price.

This information is being asked for in nearly every mail. If your place is rented for part of the season, give us the dates it is not rented.

The service is of course free to you and to the customer. You want to rent your place — the traveled wants a place to stay. Please get this information to us at once, so we can get it on file. An office down town will be opened in the very near future.

Handicapped Need Jobs

CAN EQUAL OR EXCEL ABLE-BODIED PERSONS

Wartime pressure for production in face of severe manpower shortages pressent thousands of physically handicapped men and women into exacting jobs in business and in industry for which they never even would have been considered in normal times.

When the pressure had abated, and the record had been appraised, the findings were startling. In many important respects these handicapped individuals had equalled or excelled the performances of the able-bodied persons who had been working alongside them. They convinced a very large number of employers in the United States — and convinced their personnel experts and foremen — that the properly-placed handicapped worker is among the most efficient and valuable of employees.

Seventeen such persons are today unemployed in the East Jordan area. They are handicapped as a result of their service in the Armed Forces in World War II. They have filed their applications for work with the Michigan State Employment Service. Their physical capacities have been appraised. Their skills, knowledges, and abilities, recorded. They are waiting for the right job-opening.

The Veterans Employment Service asks employers to give these disabled veterans a chance to prove their worth. List your job-openings with the local state employment service.

Smelt Running On The Jordan

GOOD NETTING REPORTED MONDAY AND TUESDAY NIGHTS

Smelt are again running on the Jordan and a hundred or more netters got catches of a pailful to a bushel on Monday and Tuesday nights. The run starts about dark and continues until midnight, the smelt returning downstream just before dawn. So far the males predominate with a sprinkling of females, which indicates the run has several days to go yet.

During the days of the Smelt Jamboree of several years ago, a board walk was constructed along the Jordan River. Later on this was inundated with rising water and has just got back to a useable condition. As a result, some of the boards are in a decayed condition and somewhat unsafe. Tuesday night one fisherman fell in the river as a result. Hip boots are preferable.

In another article in this week's Herald, it will be noted that smelt fishing is allowed only from a point 300 feet above the M-32 bridge to what is known as the "Sucker Hole", where Deer Creek joins on the Jordan River. A fishing license is required for the taking of smelt.

Final Cub Scout Organization Meeting This Friday Night

The final organization meeting of the Cub Scout program, sponsored by the East Jordan P.-T. A., will take place this Friday evening at 7:15 p. m., according to Mrs. Paul Lisk, Organization Committee Chairman.

The meeting will be held in the Band Room of the East Jordan High School, with Roy Willard, Boy Scout Field Director of this district, present to show motion pictures on Cub work, and assist in the formation of a local Cub Pack.

Cub Scouting is for boys in the 9-10-11 year age group, and is designed in such a form as to work equally as well with a small den of two or three boys as with a large size den of eight boys, which is the limit to a den. For isolated country families even one boy can constitute a den with his parents guiding him, which makes this program especially attractive to farm families.

Inasmuch as Mr. Willard is desirous of a good active start for this program, it is urged that parents along with their boys in the 9-10-11 year age group, come to this Friday evening meeting. Mr. Willard practically guarantees that an active cub scout den will improve neighborhood relationship, both between children and parents, 100 per cent.

Parents! You owe it to your boy to investigate Cub Scouting, after investigating what it has to offer you this Friday night, you will be enthusiastically in favor of it.

Announce Engagement

Barbara Jean Mathews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn E. Mathews, Boulder, Colorado, announced her engagement to Barton L. Vance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Vance of East Jordan, Mich. Tuesday, April 8, at the Delta Sorority house. The engagement was revealed by pansy-shaped booklets at each place bearing the names "Barbie and Bart." The traditional five pound box of candy was passed.

Miss Mathews was graduated from Boulder High school in 1944. She is a Junior at the University of Colorado, majoring in home economics.

Mr. Vance was graduated from East Jordan High school in 1943. He served three years with the Navy; two years of which were spent in V-12 at the University of Colorado. Mr. Vance, who is a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity, is a senior majoring in electrical engineering and will graduate from the University of Colorado in August. No date has been set for the wedding.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS
By PAUL MALLON

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

THREAT OF REVOLT IN GREECE, TURKEY, BEHIND OUR ACTIONS

WASHINGTON. — The avoided and practically unmentioned background of the Greek-Turk aid measures is simply this:

A Russo-Bulgar-Yugoslav plan is supposed to start now to sever Macedonia from Greece, and create there a separate new Balkan state under Communist control. A spring merger of offensives to this end is supposed (common report among underground agencies including the British) to have been planned at a meeting of Zhukov, Tolbukin and Tito last September. Simultaneously a revolt within Turkey, sponsored by Kurds encouraged by Moscow, is expected to get under way through guerilla activities of small bands.

The Turkish part of the plan is not well organized. The Turks who spend 60 per cent of their budget for arms, are convinced the revolt will lead to World War III, and are willing to fight.

The Greek guerilla forces, however, are supposed to number about 5,000 infantry, mostly Communist. They are supposed to enjoy excellent connivance from Bulgaria, Albania and Yugoslavia. The Albanians, for instance, have two divisions on the Greek border. The anti-government movement within Greece as a whole is regarded as being supported by perhaps 15 per cent of the population. To thwart the guerilla effort before it gets under way, the Greek army is moving northward and attacking the known guerilla areas, although they are hampered by bad communications, including destroyed railroad stock and damaged roadbeds.

POSSIBILITIES OF WAR

The average world diplomat sees more world war possibilities than exist in these potentialities, because Russia is everywhere a hidden partner, unwilling to accept open responsibility. Military men think the Communist withdrawal in North China may have been undertaken recently to clear the way for the spring Balkan campaign. At any rate, it was this situation from which Britain announced withdrawal of her troops from Greece (March 31) and into which Mr. Truman proposes to move with money for a local defense line.

The money plans have been concluded. Mr. Truman is to give 400 million dollars in nearly any way he sees fit (loans, grants, advances) of which 300 millions will go to Greece. Of this amount 150 millions will be purely military advances (rations, clothing) and 150 millions are for civilian purposes, including 50 millions for equipment (railroads and road reconstruction), 20 millions for agricultural rehabilitation and 80 millions for internal costs, including administration. The Turks are to get the other 100 millions mostly in military material, but including some work on the roads and improvement of railroads.

The human relief advances are to be in addition to this and centered in 50 millions for Greece in a general 350 million dollar Balkan food relief bill. In addition, the Greek War Relief Association in this country is raising 12 millions under approval of the President, Herbert Hoover, Governor Dewey and others to give medical, child and direct relief assistance.

WORLD LEADERSHIP FOR U. S.

Thus Greece is to cost 362 millions more atop the 358 millions already given (largely by the United States) for a visible total of 720 millions so far. The need is great, but this is not bad for a nation with an estimated 1939 population of 7 million. It represents over $100 per man, woman and child so far (probably more because the population is probably not today as large as 1939).

The very nature of these steps shows them unlikely to involve us in war. As the Russian participation is secret, the Reds are hardly likely to come out of their explosive shells. Indeed, they can hardly openly oppose our efforts to sustain governments against guerilla warfare, no matter what they may do in secret. Furthermore, if Greece and Turkey really succeed in thwarting spring guerilla operations, they will have made war just that much more unlikely for this year.

The graver possibilities lie in our assumption of world leadership at this point, to continue presumably from now on. Britain is gone from the scene of major world influence. She is giving away half her empire. On the other hand, the Russian empire has arisen, expanding and aggressive.

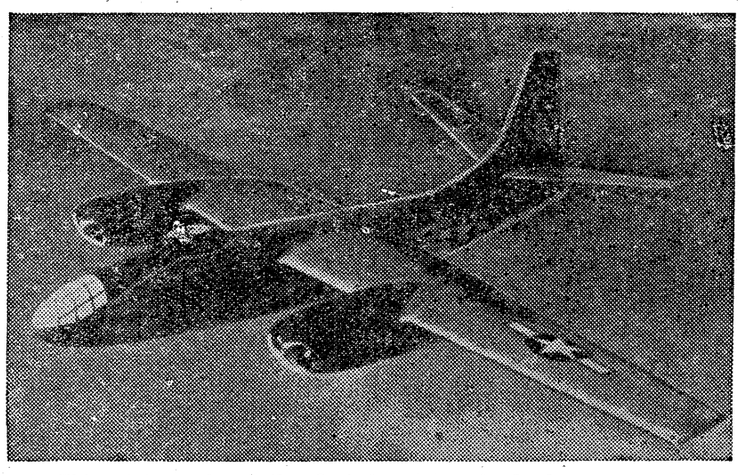

We shy way from an empire of our own, which might sustain itself in resistance to communism, but give our money to meet what we pretend to be a temporary situation. In these larger diplomatic considerations lies the danger.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Pacific Isles Given U.S. By U.N.; Britain Votes Peacetime Draft; German Miners Ask More Food

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

This picture shows the first four-jet-engined plane ever photographed in the air. The huge XB-46, a medium bomber, streaked across the sky spouting flames, at army air corps' Muroc field, California.

PACIFIC BASES:
U.N. Says 'Go Ahead'

Without a dissenting vote, the United Nations Security Council endorsed the United States request for permanent control of the former Japanese islands in the southern Pacific. These include 623 islands, comprising most of the Mariannas, the Carolines and the Marshalls. All told, the United States will have complete control over a Pacific area between the Hawaiian islands and the Philippines of 800,000 square miles of ocean.

Some of these islands lie closer to the great Russian sea base at Vladivostok, on the Siberian coast, than to San Francisco. The United States can forbid ships of any nation from entering the vast area. Any of the islands can be fortified, and air bases can be established within easy striking distance of Japan, China, the Philippines, Korea and even southern Siberia. Borneo, Australia and New Guinea also are within reach by air.

The only remaining step now is confirmation by the U. S. senate, or a joint resolution of both houses.

JET BOMBER:
Army's Fastest

The XB-46, the army's newest and fastest jet-propelled bomber, has passed its preliminary tests in an awesome manner. While the exact top speeds were withheld, army officers stated that it is the fastest bomber ever built in this country. The trials are being conducted at Muroc air field in the Mojave desert of California.

The new super bomber is propelled by four jet engines set into the wings. It is 105 feet long and has a wingspread of 113 feet. In its first flight, a test pilot flew it for an hour and a half, performing satisfactorily. It leaped into the air after a run of only 4,000 feet. Consolidated-Vultee Aircraft corporation built the new plane.

BRITAIN:
Peacetime Draft

Recognizing the threat to peace that the Russian foreign policy presents to Britain, as well as to all the world, the parliament passed a peacetime conscription bill, distasteful as this is to the Labor government. A curious alignment combined to force passage of the bill as Conservatives joined with Laborites to vote the act through. There was embarrassment on both sides, for many of the Labor party members had voted against conscription at the beginning of the war. The Conservatives, led by Winston Churchill, reluctantly favored a bill sponsored by the party they ardently dislike. Liberals and certain pacifist Laborites voted "no" on bill. The national service bill extends the present conscription laws for five years beyond January 1, 1949. It provides for 18 months of active service for all men 18 to 26, and five and a half years of part-time service.

Reds Control Berlin

The Berlin Trades Union organization now is completely under control of the Communist party. In the latest elections the Socialist Unity party, or SED, which is the German Communist organization, elected 37 of its members to the 45-man managing board. This board controls the city's administration.

Since the Communists have 361 of the 436 delegates who elect the board, they could have taken over all seats.

Less Whisky Wanted

Consumer demand for whisky is down 20 per cent from a year ago, the distilling industry reports. Production is running at a new high. These combined facts may force a price reduction soon, retail dealers think. They say that price resistance has been stiffening. Also, the festive spirit during the victory period has now tapered off, and sales have dropped off naturally from the abnormal high of last year.

GERMANY:
Strikes for Food

Coal miners in Germany's Ruhr area are striking for larger food rations for themselves and their families. This region is in the British zone. More than 300,000 miners have been off the job at various times in demonstrations against what they consider inadequate food allowances. Most of the Ruhr's 170 mines have been idle at some time or other during the past two weeks. The Ruhr is the heart of industrial Germany, containing coal and iron mines, steel mills and other heavy industries.

British authorities have been appealing, for the most part futilely, to the miners to remain on the job. The situation has been getting worse for some time, largely as a result of British inability to obtain and transport large enough quantities of foodstuffs to maintain a minimum subsistence diet. Heavy workers feel the lack even more acutely, and trouble has been brewing all winter.

Curtailment of coal output has serious consequences, not only for Germany, but for 13 European countries now receiving 10 per cent of the German coal production. Electric power reductions soon will become necessary in these nations, it is feared. In an effort to ease the situation, British authorities are rushing all available food from other parts of their zone.

Worth $650,000

Pretty Miss Hane Kennard of Boston is displaying a necklace valued at $650,000. It consists of 380 small diamonds and one big one, a 127-carat emerald-cut gem. Miss Kennard doesn't own the jewels. She is merely modeling for the American Gem society, meeting in Chicago.

LIBERIA:
To Be Studied

A group of German scientists is preparing for an expedition into the wilds of Liberia, on the west coast of Africa, if permission can be obtained. They would leave in June if occupation authorities permit.

Dr. Heinz Waterboer, leader of the 11-man group, says that they will concentrate on the southeast portions of the hinterland, studying native tribes, animals and plants. They hope to discover the secrets of the legendary and weird elephant and leopard cults of the natives. Other matters of interest will be pygmy elephants and hippopotami, believed to exist in the deep jungles.

New York's Budget

New York City's budget, at more than a billion dollars for the fiscal year, is the largest ever submitted in the United States, excepting by the federal government. The $1,029,120,314 figure sent by Mayor William O'Dwyer to the board of estimates compares with $671,970,000 for the 1947-48 fiscal year.

The big city's budget even exceeds the cost of operating the federal government 31 years ago. In 1916 federal expenditures totaled only $724,000,000.

COAL MINES:
Closed as Dangerous

Five hundred and eighteen government-operated soft coal mines have been closed down as unsafe by Secretary of the Interior Krug. They will remain closed for an indefinite period, until inspections indicate that they are "reasonably safe." Representatives of miners' unions also will pass on the safety element in each mine.

About 40,000 miners are employed in the 518 dangerous mines. The greatest risk, Secretary Krug said, is from explosive gas and dust. The other 2,013 mines under federal control have reopened. It is estimated that coal output has been reduced about one-sixth by the closing order.

John L. Lewis, who was testifying before a house labor subcommittee when Secretary Krug issued the order, commented,

"I point out that Secretary Krug is doing now what he should have done ever since the safety code became effective. He's started to enforce his own code after 111 deaths."

BILBO:
Can't Claim Seat

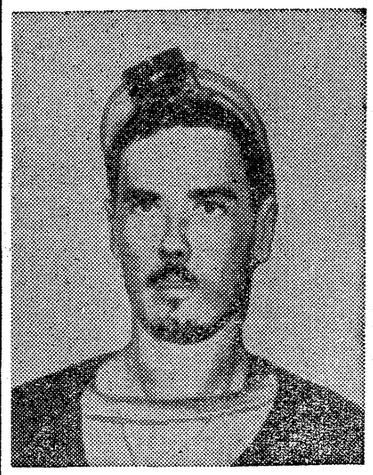

Two more operations and a long convalescence will prevent Senator-elect Theodore Bilbo of Mississippi from claiming his seat in the U. S. senate in 1947. This announcement of Bilbo's condition was made by Forrest Jackson, the senator's legal advisor. Bilbo has been suffering from cancer of the jaw.

The senate expects to adjourn for the year by early July. Since Bilbo cannot attend before September, at best, he will be unable to put in a claim for his seat this year. Meanwhile, he continues to draw his pay. Before this session began in January, several senators planned action to bar Bilbo from the chamber.

Modern Caveman

FBI agents have arrested an army deserter who has been living as a "cave man" for the past four years. He is John P. Lehigh, 25, of Uhrichsville, Ohio, a former coal miner. He was seized at the farm home of his 80-year-old grandmother.

When captured, Lehigh was wearing six sweaters, four pairs of trousers, short rubber boots and a coal miner's cap with a carbide lamp.

His hair and beard were long and unkempt. His cave, an 18 by 18 foot room dug in a hillside a mile and a half east of Uhrichsville, had a trap door camouflaged by moss and leaves. It was rudely floored.

He deserted from Fort Shelby, Miss., in July, 1943. He was turned over to military police at Fort Hayes, Columbus, Ohio.

ICELAND:
Ash Ruins Farms

Ashes from the furiously erupting Mount Hekla are ruining pastures in a large area around the cone, which is situated in southern Iceland. The volcanic dust is three inches thick, and constantly getting deeper. It is feared that 17 farms, 20 to 30 miles from the volcano, will be ruined.

Three main volcanic craters are active. Streams of lava two miles wide and 48 feet high are flowing from the mountain. Boulders hurled into the air explode like artillery shells. Farmers are slaughtering their livestock and moving out of the ash-coverd area.

RADAR:

Tests are being made at the Washington, D. C. and Chicago airports to determine how practical the ground approach control method is for commercial aviation. This method, found successful by the army and navy air corps, employs radar to guide planes to a safe landing.

Experiments will be conducted also at New York and eventually at other leading airports. The test period will continue, according to Civil Aeronautics administration officials, until it is determined to what extent radar could be used to supplement or substitute for instrument landings.

Murderer's Eyes Aid Vets

The eyes of a naval veteran executed for murder will give sight to two men, blinded at Guadalcanal. Immediately after the electrocution of Russell Koons in Ohio penitentiary, Columbus, Ohio, surgeons removed his eyes and packed them in a special container. The package was flown to New York City, and rushed to the army hospital. There surgeons transplanted the corneas of Koons' eyes to the eyes of two sightless veterans. This operation is possible only in special cases.

Truman's Press Confabs Lack Color of FDR's

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON. — President Truman held his 100th White House press and radio conference recently.

He said he had enjoyed them all. The reporters, he said, had been fair; had reported the facts.

Thank you, Mr. President.

"How have I been?" he might have asked us, but didn't.

On the way back from the White House that windy 100th day, some of us discussed the question. That 100th conference was the first since his Florida trip which began when the Sacred Cow winged its way from the national airport, some 30 minutes after Mr. Truman left the chamber of the house of representatives where he had delivered his historic message.

Baukhage

Meanwhile, the new declaration of American policy had wakened thousands and thousands of words, spoken and printed in every nation and in almost every newspaper in the world. Diplomats, generals, statesmen, people big and little, had quaked or exulted. So we naturally looked for something very hot to write about as a result of our first White House conference thereafter. We didn't get it.

We did hear former Ambassador to Poland Arthur Bliss Lane's blast against Communism; we found out that the President was a left-handed bowler (he had just been presented with a bowling alley); we were assured that he was concerned about rising prices; we listened to him express the hope that industry would see "the handwriting on the wall" and stop an upward spiral which would bring forth renewed wage demands; we asked for but got "no comment" on a number of bills "in the works" because the President won't talk about "pending legislation"—and he applied the same rule to the Greek-Turkish affair.

We also were handed a good laugh out of comment on the famous faux pas made by Gael Sullivan, deputy chairman of the national Democratic committee while the President was away. Sullivan almost disrupted "bi-partisan foreign policy" by writing to the Republican national committee chairman and asking for a joint statement supporting the Truman plan on Greek aid.

When somebody asked if Sullivan was thinking of resigning there was considerable gaiety.

There were a number of other questions which elicited some minor stories but no screaming headlines of type that almost always appeared after a Roosevelt news conference.

We wondered why. Looking back over the hundred conferences with Mr. Truman, we agreed they had been pretty good. But of late, we agreed, it required a bit of digging to get the news. Roosevelt usually gave us something which, even if it wasn't news, had a strong human interest appeal. Even if it were only a striking simile like the one Roosevelt used in connection with lend-lease.

(You may remember, he said that if a neighbor's house was on fire, you naturally would lend him your hose if his weren't long enough, not only to help him save his home but also to keep your own from catching fire. And you wouldn't demand payment for its use. After the fire was out the neighbor would give back the hose or pay for it with whatever he had to offer in return.)

Even the anti-Roosevelt papers would have to report stories like that, whether they agreed with the idea behind them or not.

And if Roosevelt hadn't any specific comment on the important news of the day, he frequently would make use of a parable or give us a homily, which showed us how he was thinking on the subject, something that managed to get his ideas over and furnish us with the background we needed to interpret the daily happenings.

We talked the 100th press conference over, lamenting that nothing had come out of it which would clarify the Greek-Turkish aid program. We regretted that President Truman hadn't injected a little more of himself into the meeting. It would have been to the advantage of the news folk, the program itself, the people who were trying to get support for it.

Of course, there was reason for Mr. Truman's reticence. He had been criticized early in his administration for answering some questions too glibly. He had suffered from spontaneous replies. As a result he is now perhaps leaning a little too far backwards.

The White House press and radio conference is a great institution. It provides a medium for bringing the people and their government nearer together than any other medium which exists, except perhaps the rarer "fireside chat." Nothing like it exists anywhere else in the world. But it is not an easy thing to handle. The correspondents are there to get every scintilla of news which they think will interest their readers and listeners. The President is there to reveal only what he thinks is his duty to release in the public good. And he is also there to present his side of all questions so that his administration appears in the best light.

President Roosevelt was a past master at the art. He seldom refused to answer a question, for that just meant "no news." He preferred to feint and dodge in a manner that produced some kind of an answer which would suit his ends. President Truman has chosen to go into a clinch rather than feint or risk a wild haymaker.

Here's Point for Better Roads

Last year, some 34,677,000 tons of milk were hauled over rural roads on the journey to milk plants and dealers, according to a report from the Public Roads administration cited by Charles M. Upham of the American Road Builders' association.

Figures show the nation is using 13 billion pounds more of milk and various dairy products at present than in prewar years. During the prewar years, 1936 to 1940, the average yearly tonnage of milk going over rural roads was 21,287,000. In 1945, 101.5 billion pounds of milk were sold from farms, returning $3,070,380,000 to our farmers, a good percentage of their annual cash income.

Newspaper men and radio casters crowd eagerly about President Truman in one of his 100 press conferences.

The highway plays the major role in the transportation of milk from the farm to the plant or dealer—and to the customer, Upham points out. Forty-nine of our large cities receive every drop of milk by highway, as do 54,000 communities that depend upon the highway for their entire food supply. Almost 90 per cent of the nation's milk supply is transported by truck.

Tank trucks have been used in the east for many years for milk transportation and a trend toward this type of haulage is growing in the West. Such haulage eliminates the use of milk cans and is quicker and more economical.

"In all foods," Upham commented in playing up the need for good roads, "transportation costs figure in the consumer's bill. Condition of the road over which milk is hauled is an important factor in transportation costs." A study of 90 milk collection routes in Maine showed that the routes averaged 52 miles, with two-fifths of the mileage being unimproved. Traveling by truck over the mud roads was impossible part of the year. It was estimated that if roads on these routes were entirely improved, the average cost of collection would be reduced two cents per hundredweight of milk and cream. Cash savings in collection costs for the 90 routes would total $8,800 yearly.

FAMOUS HEROES OF HISTORY LIVE AGAIN

Great heroes and events of History come to life again in a fascinating, new page-color feature that tells the story of an American boy whose dreams carry him back to stirring days. See "Dick's Adventures In Dreamland", in Puck, The Comic Weekly, with this Sunday's (April 20) issue of the Detroit Sunday Times.

"Well Pat," said a friend at the bedside of the dying Irishman, "have ye made peace with God and denouced the divil?"

" Shure," said Pat, "I've made peace with God—but I'm in no position to antagonize anybody!"

Air Compressor Is Handy Farm Tool

An old auto compressor comes in handy for a lot of farm jobs, according to Wayne Williams, of Cedar Springs. He rigged his compressor to a small electric motor so it would be easy to use for spraying, dusting, applying fly spray, and cleaning small motors and farm seed tools, as well as for inflating tires. A pipe, bolted to the motor base, sets into two notched pieces of angle iron, which are bolted to the wooden base, to hold the portable motor in place.

SPRING CLEAN-UP WEEK WILL MAKE YOUR HOME SAFE

Have you set a date for spring clean-up week in your home? The purpose of such a week is not only neatness, but to remove fire, accident, and health hazards from your home.

Fred Roth, farm safety specialist at Michigan State college, recommends that you make a thorough check-up of all dangerous areas. Your closets, basements and attic should be kept free from loose or piled paper, rags and any rubbish.

Make a careful check of flues, chimneys and stoves pipes and of electric wiring.

Do you have a safe storage place for kindling and other fuel? Gasoline and kerosene shoud be at least 50 feet from major farm buidings. Remember that farm fires destroy about 90 million dollars worth of farm property a year. While you're checking, ask yourself whether you know where to shut off water, gas and electricity in your home.

If in the process of your spring cleaning, you decide to do some home dry-cleaning, do it out side the house. Keep your hands out of the cleaning fluid. Use a suction washer. Use only a fluid which is labeled non-flammable. Dry the garments outside and keep chidren and pets at a safe distance from your cleaning.

Home dry cleaning has disfigured or fatally burned many persons and has burned houses to the ground. You can't afford to take a chance.

LOOKING BACKWARD

From the Herald Files of Forty, Thirty and Twenty Years Ago
Compiled by Mrs. Mabel Secord

March 2, 1907

Mrs. Grant Snellen, Mrs. Frank Bader, Mrs. J. Shay and G. Bayliss of Boyne City attended the funeral of their mother, Mrs. Charles A. Bayliss, in East Jordan Sunday. Mrs. Bayliss, aged about 60 died Feb. 21st. Surviving are the husband, seven sons and five daughters.

Robert Deschane and Miss Eva Kidder were married Thursday evening by Justce Boosinger.

Mrs. Mack Quin will open a millinery store in the Richardson building next to the grocery in a few days. This will give Eat Jordan five millinery parlors.

At the Christian Endeavor meeting Sunday evening, Messrs Webster, Lorraine, Ellis and Charles Malpass, rendered a clarinet quartette. (Only they spelled it "clarionet" then.)

"The body of Edward Bengeson of Boyne City, who disappeared last December, was found in the snow near Gaylord Sunday. On December 8, in company with two other woodsmen, he started for camp. On arrival at their destination the stock of liquor had diminished. Bergeson was delegated to return to town for another supply. This was the last seen of him. The body had been partly eaten by some animal but was recongnizable. It will be taken to Boyne City for burial."

March 2, 1917

Mrs. Henry J. Carpenter, aged 60, a resident of the region since 1879, died at her home on the West Side February 23rd.

Mrs. Glenn C. Townsend (nee Hazel Holliday) and infant child died at the home in Ellsworth Saturday. Burial was at Traverse City.

M. C. Smith and wife of South Boardman cedebrated their 73rd wedding anniversary last Saturday.

March 4, 1927

On the last day of the spearing season, late in the afternoon, Dan Swanson of Rock Elm speared a 39 pound, 54 inch long muskellunge in Lake Charlevoix. Dr. Beuker purchased the big fish.

The body of Frederick Colburn, aged 70, former pioneer resident of South Arm township, was brough here from Detroit where he died Feb. 25th. Burial was in Moorehouse cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Wells left Tuesday for Iola, Kansas, where Mr. Wells bought a Buick auto sales and service station. Mr. Wells has been Manual Arts instructor here for the last three years.

"All the comforts of Home," a four-act comedy, was presented at the High School auditorium Monday night by a cast consisting of Messrs. Al Warda, Wm. Sanderson, Guy Watson, Wm. Sloan, Clyde Snelenberger, Howard Baker, Lowell Baker, Clara Kitsman, and Misses Margaret Sherman and Ethel Crowell.

In a performance where all did remarkably well it is impossible to call attention to individual starring, but especial mention must be made of the work of the directors, Mr. Al Warda, who played the lead. He not only played his part exceptionally well, but the whole performance showed his skill in training, and his excellent taste in selection of costumes. Mr. Warda is experienced in such work, having spent many years with stock companies on the road. This is the first play he has directed in East Jordan and to say that he "put it over big" is expressing it conservatively."

Frank C. Smith has replaced Arthur Wells as Manual Arts instructor. He comes here from Cental Michigan Normal at Mt. Pleasant where he was in charge of the grades in the Training School.

The business Men's Club, at their second meeting tonight, are having a fish dinner at the Russell Hotel.

Naval Reserve Traveling Unit to Visit East Jordan, Apr. 24

Michigan's Naval Reserve Traveling Unit will revisit East Jordan on Thursday, April 24,1947 between 10:00 A.M. and 6:00 P.M. in the lobby of the Post Office to enroll all veterans of the Army, Navy, Coast Guard, and Marines, as well as former WAVES, in the streamlined inactive Naval Reserve.

The new, civilian program affords the veteran an opportunity to join at his discharged rate, maintain his longevity the same as being on active duty, and most important he remains strictly a civilian, said Lt(jg), J. H. Faber, Officer in Charge of theUnit. A member of the inactive Naval Reerve cannot be called to active duty without his own consent, except in the event of a national emergency declared by Congress.

Naval Reservists may resign from the program at any time, he announced.

"Veterans can be enrolled within ten minutes, since no physical or mental examinations are necessary, and every naval reservist still receives all benefits of the GI Bill of Rights and his terminal leave pay," emphasized Lt. Faber.

Reservists need not attend any meetings, drills, or cruises. Those who choose to attend weekly at the nearest naval training center receive a full day's pay of their rate, amounting up to $264 per year.

"An opportunity now exists for the former enlisted man to increase his rate, along with the chance to receive a reserve commission," announced Lt. Faber.

He urged every veteran to protect his rate and longevity, and to be one of the million inactive naval reservists.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

A Great Bunch —Those Ex-G.I.'s

Willie Wells and a bunch of the boys from our town went to Pound Ridge Saturday to a reunion of their old regiment.

There were about two hundred and fifty boys who came from miles around to a good old feast in Farmer Collins' barn. I expect they seemed a lot different to each other out of uniform. But they had a great time, spinning yarns, drinking beer, and talking over the old times in South Africa and Italy and the Aleutians.

I went over to cover the meeting for the Clarion, and one thing that sure impressed me was the good behavior of those boys—their preference for a moderate beverage like beer—their friendly spirit.

From where I sit, our ex-G.I.'s are making as good a showing in peacetime as they made during the war. And they're setting a mighty good example to the rest of us—in tolerance, and moderation, and good fellowship.

Soldier Come Home

BY
BETTY ZANE WATSON

Johnny Davis saves his grandmother, Jennifer Martin, from a holocaust at her home, but since she is unconscious when he reaches her, his cousin, Basil Martin, takes credit for the rescue. Thomas, the butler, is the only one who knows that Johnny was the real hero but he is afraid to speak, even though his doing so might cause Mrs. Martin to acknowledge the grandson she would never have into her home before. Johnny is in love with Kit Willett who is engaged to Basil. When Basil asks Kit to persuade Mrs. Martin to change her will, cutting out Johnny, she indignantly refuses but he then threatens to transfer her old uncle to a job as laborer. Johnny tells her he loves her.

CHAPTER XIII.

Johnny and Kit, both anxious to know the outcome of the meeting, decided to wait at the Clarion office until J. D. returned. While he was gone they speculated on his progress every few minutes.

About ten, J. D. came up the steps of the building. They knew by the look on his face that something was wrong. He was not smiling, and his expression told clearly of disappointment.

"Well, kiddies, they opened their hearts to us, all right." He threw down the papers they had so carefully set up for the case. "We'll have exactly two hundred and fifty dollars to build the park with after we buy the Johnson place at our figure. Eight hundred dollars less than she's asking for. There it is—take it or leave it." He stood looking out the window at the black night, his hands stuck in his pockets.

"You mean that's the story, J. D.?" Kit asked, coming around the desk to stand in front of him.

"They'll only pay her fifty-two hundred for the place?" Johnny asked incredulously.

"Yep. That's the whole thing. Oh, yes," he remembered. "They'll appropriate the amount for the swimming pool." He saw Johnny and Kit's faces light up. "But—they expect to be paid back in two summers, from the fee we're supposed to charge the kids." He looked at them out of the corner of his eye to see how they would take this.

"Charge them to go in swimming?" Johnny and Kit asked almost in unison.

"That was their idea."

"But—what good would that do the kids at the Settlement? The kids we're building it for? They never have a nickel they can spend, you know that." Johnny shook his head and gritted his teeth.

"I said it was their idea, son."

"Why, they're as bad as—as Mrs. Martin. Don't they want a park, J. D. or what?" Kit asked.

"Oh, I think they don't care much one way or another. But the point is they have their budget all balanced nicely and with November's election near they just don't want to erase those pretty figures of what they've saved all the taxpayers. That's the real reason, Kit."

Kit and Johnny were both leaning up against the desk looking as discouraged as they possibly could. J. D. walked over to them and smiled at them, laying a hand on each of their shoulders.

The Council Buys The Johnson Place

"Wait a minute, kids, don't jump yet. You're forgetting that old J. D. can still pull a few tricks from the bag." He laughed as they looked at him eagerly.

"It so happens that I've got a little bit salted away. It's not much, but it's something. I've been saving it for a new press, but—well, the old one's been with me so long that I'd sort of feel like I was junking an old friend, anyway, so maybe with that money and a few more shekels we could swing the deal yet."

They both looked at him and neither said a word, but the admiration they both felt was written plainly on their faces. It was Kit who spoke first.

"J. D., you're a darling, but we're not going to let you lose your new press. It's just not right—and the old one's worn out—you know that."

"No, Dad, we can't do that. You keep your money till you can get the new press. There will be some other way." He put his hand up to his chin and frowned. "There's got to be some other way."

They argued for a while, but finally gave up. J. D. had made up his mind and it was final. He had enough to pay the Johnson widow the six thousand she was asking and that would leave ten hundred and fifty dollars to invest in material for the playground, since the labor, or most of it, was to be free. The swimming pool would have to wait for a few years, or until they could show the town council what an interest the park would create in the town.

"Well, then, it's decided and we can't talk you out of it, J. D.?" She looked at him and saw him shake his head defiantly. "We might as well celebrate, then—and anyway—this is Johnny's birthday!" She smiled at Johnny.

"Yeah—let's get out of here," Johnny quickly changed the subject.

"Johnny's birthday—it is, isn't it, son? How many years, boy? Twenty-four, isn't it?" He shook his head. "It seems like yesterday." He looked at the calendar and slowly tore off the page of November, crumpled it and threw it in the waste basket.

The next few days were ones of activity for Johnny, J. D. and Kit. Although she had quit her job at the Clarion the Saturday before, she was down at the office Monday morning early. They were to see Mrs. Johnson that day and Kit had offered to go with them, and would have been quite disappointed if they had acted as though they did not need her help.

The deal for the house went through at fifty-seven hundred, and J. D. could have gotten it at even a lower price if he had not felt that the widow needed the money. They were all three elated over the formal signing up and reminded one another of the advantages that the property had for the park site. They tried not to compare it to Martindale Park for several reasons. Martindale was definitely unobtainable; secondly, the deal had gone through now and there was no backing down. The council had their money in it, as well as J. D.

Kit was stilll at the office when Jackie came in.

They were all surprised to see him. The child was pale and still weak-looking, but he showed a good deal of improvement. The day was bitterly cold and his ragged little jacket did not keep him warm, Kit noticed immediately.

He climbed up on J. D.'s lap and the four of them talked and laughed together. They ordered hot chocolate and sandwiches brought in from the confectionery next door and had a regular celebration in his honor, which made him very proud.

He had said he had to be home by four, when his father got home, and Johnny promised to get him there in time. Before he left, the child turned to Kit and very seriously asked: "When are you going to get married, Kit?"

Kit thinking he still thought she was Johnny's girl, as he had originally believed, answered, "Well, honey, we haven't decided yet. But we'll let you know, won't we, Johnny?" She winked at Johnny.

"No," Jackie shook his head and looked down at his feet. "I mean the real one you're going to get married to."

Kit was embarrassed. She wondered how he had found out about Basil. "In a few days, Jackie," she answered slowly.

Jackie Poses A Question

"Kit, what are you going to marry him for? He's bad!" The child looked directly into her eyes and demanded the truth.

She found it would be hard to tell him the truth; his child-like faith might not accept her standards. "Why, because I—because we love each other, Jackie . . . and he's really not bad, honey. What makes you think that?"

He disregarded her last question. "How can you love him and Johnny, too, Kit?"

She was stumped. There was no answer to that but one. She could say bluntly that she didn't love Johnny—in fact, that was the only thing she could say.

"But I don't love—Johnny." She breathed a sigh of relief. That much was settled.

Jackie's eyes grew large and he looked up at her earnestly. "Oh, but you do Kit, you do!"

"What do you say we take a look at that sheepskin jacket down at Disher's for you, Jack?" Johnny had seen the jackets in the window before and had decided the boy should have one.

But Jackie was not to be sidetracked. "But, Johnny, won't you tell her she does?" he pleaded anxiously.

Johnny looked at Kit helplessly. He was as embarrassed as she was. "Well, Jack, I'll do my best." He half-dragged the boy out to the street.

Johnny was outfitted from head to toe when the three of them finished with him at Disher's. They got almost as much kick out of it as the boy did. They looked like Christmas shoppers when they finally brought the child home. Mrs. Murphy greeted them at the door, her gratitude making her plain little face almost beautiful.

As they drove away, Kit confessed to the two men, "You know, I don't ever think I've had so much fun. Isn't he a darling?"

"Yeah," Johnny's face lit up. "He's just the kind of a boy I'd like to have."

Kit remembered Johnny's statement that evening when she was with Basil.

"I had a lot of fun today, Baz. We—ah, some friends and I bought some clothes for—a little kid." After she mentioned it she wished she had not brought it up; there was too much about it that she did not want Basil to know. He would not like her being at the Clarion, especially after she no longer worked there. And he certainly would not appreciate her buying clothes for Jerry Murphy's child. Murphy had caused enough trouble, going to Martindale every other day threatening to sue the Martins for the child's accident. Basil had been cleared and did not intend to pay them a cent, he told Kit quite definitely.

She went on describing the event with as much clarity as she could, remembering not to mention the child's name or who her friends had been.

"Which will we have first, Baz, a boy or a girl?" she asked, smiling at him.

"Neither! That's final. The old lady is just looking for an excuse to get out of leaving me her dough—and that sure would clinch it! Don't talk kids to me, baby!" He drew a long drag on his cigarette.

"Basil, what are you talking about?" Kit asked.

"Just what I said. Why, she'd love to leave everything in a trust fund for a great-grandchild or anybody else she could dig up. And don't think I don't know it." He nodded his head.

"And you mean we won't have any children because—" Kit was sitting on the sofa beside him and she stood suddenly—"because you are so selfish you want all of Mrs. Martin's money for yourself! Because—"

He took her by the wrist and pulled her down beside him, leaning over her, his face close to hers. "Wait a minute, beautiful, you got me wrong." He looked deep in her eyes and touched her cheek with his lips. "I was only kidding. . . . Why, can't you tell, baby? Why, the only reason I don't want to have any kids is—" He nodded his head in the direction of Linda Martin's portrait. "What would I do if anything happened to you—like it did to her, Kit?" He smoothed her hair back from her forehead. "You know I couldn't live without you, don't you?"

"Couldn't you, Basil?" she asked, not looking at him. Her voice was expressionless.

Johnny and J. D. were in the office of the Clarion when Pat Nickols came in Tuesday after the Johnson property was officially theirs.

Bad News for The Davises

He was a big, burly fellow and Johnny had not seen him since he had been one of the party that had started to work on the Martindale park some months back. His usual smiling face was clouded as he burst into the office where the two men were busy with the copy for the evening edition.

J. D. looked up. "Well, Pat, what is on your mind?"

"Plenty, J. D.," was his reply and the expression on his face matched the seriousness of his answer. "You fellows buy the Johnson place?"

"That's right, Pat. We're going to put the park on the lot," Johnny spoke up.

"I don't think you'll be putting any park on that ground." He shook his head. "My grandpa built that place back in '86 and they had a devil of a time. There's a rock bed under that house no more'n five feet down below ground, and you know the kind of rock we got around here, so darned hard you can't even touch it!"

J. D. had prepared himself for bad news from the look on Pat's face, but this was a little worse than he had counted on. He said nothing for a few minutes—he didn't have the courage to look at Johnny.

After studying a moment, Johnny asked quickly, "Well, that was under the house—could be the rest of the lot is all right, couldn't it?"

"That I couldn't say, Davis. Maybe . . . but it ain't likely." He saw the look of disappointment on Johnny's face and added quickly, "But we'll see. I'll round up some of the men this afternoon and we'll give it a try. You be over there?" he asked both the men.

"You couldn't keep us away, Pat," J. D. answered for both of them.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

THE KINGDOM STRENGTHENED AND ENLARGED

LESSON TEXT—II Samuel 5:6-10, 17-25.
MEMORY SELECTION — David waxed greater and greater; for the Lord, the God of hosts, was with him.—II Samuel 5:10.

David was the great king of Israel. His life and reign are of unusual interest and the Bible gives much information about him. In the rapid survey of Israel's history which we are making in our lesson series, we have just this one lesson on David's reign and that is concerned more with the nation than with its king.

This unique man was by God's choice placed over Israel. At first he received only the allegiance of the southern division of the kingdom, Judah (see II Sam. 2:4). But by showing himself friendly (Prov. 18:24) he won the hearts of the people of the north, Israel, and they too recognized him as king (II Sam. 5:1-5).

Thus united, the kingdom was ready to move forward, by the blessing of God—and that is the story before us in our lesson.

I. The Lord Was With Them (vv. 6-10).

A united people! How important that is in the affairs of the nations. Nothing is more disturbing or a greater hindrance than internal friction. We ought to deal quickly and decisively with any group or force in the life of our nation which is clearly divisive or disloyal.

Think, then, how important it is that God's people in the Christian church stand together in undivided loyalty to Christ, our King, and in loving devotion to one another.

Jerusalem, which was to be the "city of David," and which figures so prominently not only in history but in prophecy, had to be wrested from the hands of the heathen Jebusites, and be established as the sacred city and the capital of the Jewish nation.

Note that the kind and considerate king was not a weakling. He knew how to fight and to win. Verse 8 is difficult to interpret, but evidently does not mean that David was cruel. The Jebusites taunted him by saying that their blind and cripples could hold the wall against David's men. Then they doubtless put their best soldiers on the wall, and David said to his men, "Let us take these cripples."

We see in verses 9 and 10 that David was not only a fighter, but also a builder. He began then the development of Jerusalem, the great city of which we are yet to hear wondrous things.

II. The Lord Delivered Them (vv. 17-21).

The Philistines, Israel's constant enemy, had control of much of the land west of the Jordan. As soon as they heard that the people were now united under a young aggressive king they laid plans to destroy his power almost before he could start.

The Philistines were clever, but they reckoned without God. David was smart; he counted God into his plans. He asked the Lord what to do and the answer was, "Go up. I will certainly deliver the Philistines into thy hand," and he did!

We may well learn the lesson that prayer, consultation with God, must come before any successful campaign for him. Inquire of him to be assured of victory.

Note also here that there are battles in which the Lord expects us to go up boldly right into the face of a mighty enemy, and take the victory by faith!

Sometimes we are afraid to meet the enemies of the cross with boldness, choosing rather to compromise for the sake of peace. It never works. That is the way of defeat.

III. The Lord Went Before Them (vv. 22 25).

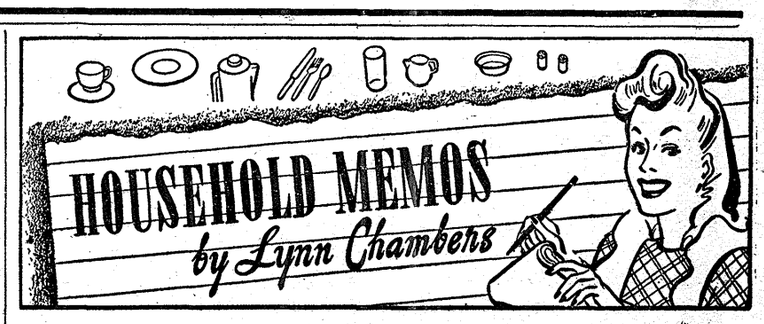

Defeated once so decisively that they had to run away from their sacred images (v. 21), the enemy rallied for another attack.

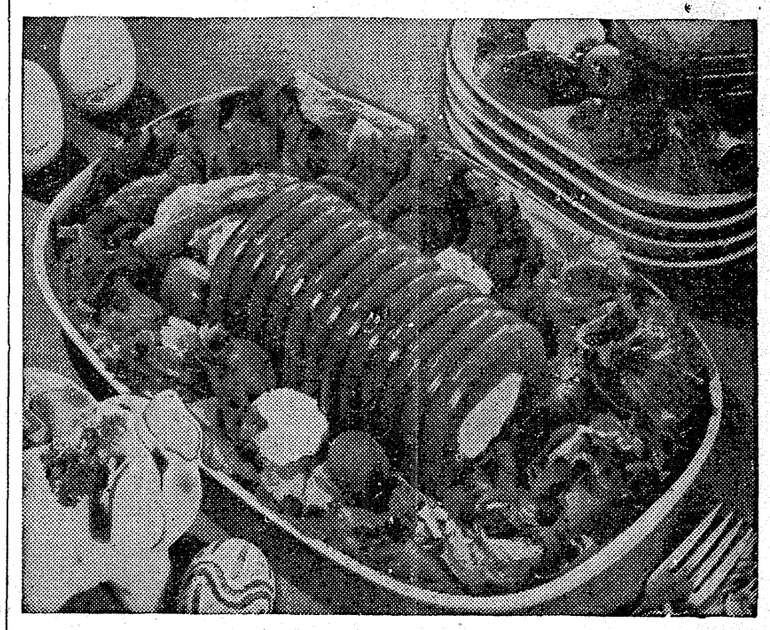

It is ever thus—and foolish is the Christian who thinks that one victory wins a war. After spiritual victory Satan redoubles his efforts and strikes while the believer is resting on his laurels—if he is foolish enough to do it. Here again we say, be on guard!

Observe that the Lord worked differently this time. David inquired again, but this time the word was, "Thou shalt not go up." Israel was to come up from the rear of the Philistines, and not to attack until the wind in the treetops told that God had gone before to smite the enemy.

There is a time for straight out frontal attack on the enemy. There is also a time when God wants us to stand back and watch him work out our deliverance. Sometimes that is harder to do than to attack, but we must obey his word.

How shall we know which to do? By asking God. Prayer must always precede action—and then action will be right!

Dress Up Leftovers Skillfully!
(See Recipes Below)

Leftover Check-Up

There are some leftovers we view with disdain, but there are others we welcome heartily. For example, I'm never sad when we have leftover ham, lamb or chicken. Clever tricks can be applied to leftover potatoes as well as vegetables; and there's a dozen different appealing ways to work leftover cake and puddings into toothsome desserts for second day use.

If your family does not really enjoy leftover food your job is to change the original dish to such an extent they will really think it's a fresh, new idea. A little work, perhaps, but the results are gratifying.

Garnish leftover platters carefully so that when they make their first appearance they will be a hit before they are even tasted. In this way the problem will be half settled before the family even begins to taste.

Here's a nice Sunday night supper suggestion using old favorites like ham and eggs, tastefully combined with a gloriously colored tomato aspic.

Tomato Aspic with Ham Deviled Eggs.
(Serves 6)

(Part I.)

3 hard-cooked eggs
1 tablespoon mayonnaise or sour cream
2 tablespoons deviled or chopped ham

Cut hard-cooked eggs in half crosswise and remove yolks. Blend yolks with sour cream or mayonnaise and ham. Refill whites.

(Part II.)

1 envelope plain, unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1½ cups tomato juice
½ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon grated onion

Soften gelatin in cold water. Mix tomato juice, salt, sugar and onion and simmer for 10 minutes. Dissolve softened gelatin in hot liquid. Cool. Into each mold place ½ deviled egg and pour tomato jelly over each. Chill until firm. Unmold on salad greens and serve with mayonnaise.

Either ham or lamb may be used in the following casserole made with rice. It's an easy-to-prepare casserole, but one which is exceedingly appetizing for one of the nippy nights when appetites are hearty.

Casserole of Lamb and Rice.
(Serves 6)

2 cups finely chopped lamb
2 cups steamed rice
Salt and pepper
Celery salt
Onion juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ cup bread crumbs
1 egg, slightly beaten
Hot water or stock

Line buttered mold with rice. Season meat to taste with salt, pepper, celery salt, onion juice and lemon juice. Add cracker crumbs to slightly beaten egg and enough hot water or stock to moisten the meat.

LYNN SAYS:

Be Economical; Use All of Meat

Because the price of meat is high, it's essential for every woman watching her budget to use every scrap of it wisely. The first saving lies in cooking every cut properly without undue shrinkage. No matter whether you broil, roast, stew or fry, use low heat and an even temperature. You'll have more meat left if you do.

When most of the meat has been

LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU

*Tomato Aspic with Ham Deviled Eggs
*Au Gratin Potatoes or *Corn Oysters
Beverage Rye Bread
*Marmalade Cake Pudding
*Recipe given.

Fill center of mold and cover with remaining rice. Cover with buttered paper and steam for 45 minutes. Serve with green pea sauce.

Creamed Chicken Supreme.
(Serves 6)

1½ cups cooked chicken or turkey, cut in strips
½ pound fresh mushrooms, sauteed in butter
½ cup cooked spaghetti
1 cup white sauce
⅓ cup grated American cheese
½ cup buttered bread crumbs

Put chicken, mushrooms, spaghetti and white sauce layer by layer, into a buttered casserole. Sprinkle with cheese and crumbs and bake in a hot (400-degree) oven until top is browned, about 15 minutes.

Au Gratin Potatoes.
(Serves 4 to 6)

2 cups cold boiled or baked potatoes, cubed
1 cup white sauce
1 cup grated American cheese

Add cheese to white sauce while still warm, then mix in the potatoes. Place in a shallow, buttered baking dish and bake until the top is browned in a moderate oven.

If the family likes corn and you always seem to have a bit leftover from your main dinner, then do something that will make a big hit with Dad and the boys. These should be made small and they will be very appealing:

Corn Oysters.
(Serves 6)

2 cups corn pulp
2 eggs, separated
4 crackers, crumbled
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

To corn pulp, add beaten egg yolks, cracker crumbs, salt and pepper. Add stiffly beaten egg whites and blend. Drop by teaspoonfuls on hot greased frying pan and brown. Serve with jam or jelly.

What to do with leftover pieces of cake? That's not hard when there's a perfectly delicious recipe around for a marmalade pudding which will take care of the cake crumbs so nicely.

Marmalade Cake Pudding
(Serves 6)

1⅓ cups dry cake crumbs
1⅓ cups scalded milk
½ cup sugar
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup orange marmalade
½ teaspoon nutmeg

Soak cake crumbs in hot milk; when cool, add remaining ingredients and place in a buttered baking dish. Set in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 45 minutes. Serve hot with orange sauce or plain cream.

If there is no gravy from leftover roast for casseroles, you can always make a nourishing white sauce, add a chicken or beef bouillon cube to it and use this as gravy.

If there is not enough meat to use for stuffing green peppers, rice or vegetables may always be added to extend the meat.

Potatoes are always a good extender for meat in hash. Use onion as one of the seasonings if you want something truly delicious. Serve with fried eggs if the hash seems a little skimpy.

The first day the leftover roast i

Home Made MSC Device Controls Pototo Ring-Rot

A simple and inexpensive method to control ring-rot disease in potatoes has been worked out by L. Carl Knorr, extension specialist in plant pathology at Michigan State college.

By using an old can or crock, to which a petcock is attached near the bottom to control the flow of disinfectant, corrosive sublimate is allowed to trickle down over the stationary cutting knife. The disinfectant flows through a flexible rubber hose and through a kerosene lamp wick which is attached to the top of the stationary cutting knife.

The pathologist explains that ringrot bacteria are usually transferred from infected potatoes to healthy seed tubers in the process of cutting. The germs ride through on the knife to the cut surface of the potatoes where they cause the ring-rot.

In experiments with the new knife disinfecting process, Knorr said no spread of the disease took place although seed stock containing 20 percent ring-rot was cut for planting.

The cutting table shown in the picture is the type recommended by E. J. Wheeler, Michigan State college potato research specialist. Since the knife is stationary and double-bladed the operator can use both hands and cut from either side.

By using the stationary knife and cutting table, a worker can cut in two hours the ordinary number of potatoes he would cut with a jackknife in an entire day.

The disinfectant is made with one ounce of corrosive sublimate in four gallons of water.

OAT BLIGHT:

The new oat disease, Helmintho sporium, commonly called "New Blight of Oats" or the "96 disease" However, seed stocks of oats has not been observed in Michigan. brought into the state may possibly carry the fungus causing the disease.

If a grower discovers from the dsiease in his field, there is nothing he can do. The time to prevent loss from the disease is before planting. There are two courses open to the grower. First, he can grow resistant varieties, and second, he can treat his seed.

Resistant varieties as the best method. Varieties with Victoria or Richland crosses are susceptible to the disease. These include Vicland, Boone, Tama, Cedar, Letoria and Fultex.

Only varieties that do not have Victoria or Richland blood are resistant. Therefore, the varieties that will protect the grower by being resistant are the Bond Crosses, Clinton, Marion, Eaton, Ithacan, and Cornellian.

Seed treatment, the other method of controlling "96," has proved satisfactory. The recommended method is 1|2 ounce of new improved Ceresan per bushel of oats. This is the same treatment that will also control several other oat diseases appearing in Michigan, including loose smut, covered smut, scab, and the seedling blight stage of the old Helmintho sporium leaf spot.

TOMATO BLIGHT

Now is the time to start thinking about this year's conrol of late blight on tomatoes. Losses from this disease last year were extremely serious in the eastern and middlewestern states and in southern Michigan.

This year, the disease has been reported in excessive amounts in the South— and this means that the fungus will be imported into Michigan along with southern-grown seedlings. Weather conditions will be the deciding factor in whether or not the fungus becomes established in Michigan fields. Wet weather aids the spread — dry seasons retard it—as was the case last summer in Michigan.

Farmers should insure their crops against late blight by spraying and dusting. Thirty days after the first cluster bloom, the crop should be treated with a copper fungicide (either Bordeaux or one of the fixed copper compounds.) This treatment should be repeated at approximately 10-day intervals until harvest time. Materials for spraying or dusting should be ordered well in advance of the time that they will be used.

Field lay-out for tomato culture should also be planned now. Plants should be spaced far enough apart so that they can dry out quickly after dews or rains. Where it is practical, spacings of 5 1|2 to 6 feet between rows and 2 1|2 to 4 feet between plants should be considered.

DDT FOR FLIES

One barn spraying per year to control flies — that's what MSC specialists say is possible with DDT.

Tests have shown that DDT will practically get rid of houseflies, stableflies, and horn flies. They sprayed the barns and milk houses only once, at the start of the season, and then sprayed the cattle once every week or two.

For spraying cattle — use 3 lbs. of 50 percent wettable DDT powder to 100 gallons of water.

For spraying barns and dairy houses—40 pounds of 50 percent wettable DDT powder to 100 gallons of water.

If weaker strengths of DDT sprays are used, for barns and dairy houses, it may be necessary to treat more than once during the summer for satisfactory control.

As a caution in the use of these sprays, be careful not to contaminate milking utensils, milk, and feeds with the DDT.

Yes, you heard it right — one barn spraying a season with DDT is adequate if you use the proper strength. That's 40 pounds of 50 percent wettable DDT powder to 100 gallons of water for the barn. But spray the animals every week or two—or when flies start bothering—with a weak solution. That's 3 pounds of 50 percent wettable DDT to 100 gallons of water.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

There is a silver lining in the storm financial clouds at Lansing.

While gloom is thick enough at the office of the Governor and in the Legislative chambers to cut it with a dull knife, Michigan public school teachers now believe that happy days are on the way.

Action by the State Supreme Court in validating the sales tax diversion amendment, whereby 76 per cent of the sales tax will be diverted back to home governments, has had the effect of indirectly raising taxes for local governments.

The taxpayer has not shown any enthusiasm or disposition to enact new taxes for his home government, but he relished the opportunity as a majority vote last November revealed, to divert additional millions of money collected by the State of Michigan back to his home town and county for use by the public schools, townships, and villages.

Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of Public Instruction, estimates that the additional state aid to public schools will be a minium of $40,000,000 and a maximum of $55,000,000. Thus, state aid to schools will raise from the previous all-time high of $60,000,000 to $100,000,000 or $115,000,000 in the fiscal year starting July 1, 1947.

Dr. Elliott estimates this sum by a quota of $5.30 for each chool census child.

Now $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 for schools is centainly a lot of money. It should go a long way toward paying adequate salaries to school teachers.

Unless the State Legislature adops minium salary scales whereby teachers will be guaranteed adequate wages; the school teacher must rely on the School Board of Education for such benefit.

Governor Kim Sigler recently revealed that he was seriously contemplating recommendation of minimum salary scales for Michigan's 32,000 public school teachers.

California, Indiana, and New York recently enacted by legislative action $2,400 yearly minimum salaries for teachers with a college Bachelor degree.

The New York law, recommended by Governor Thomas E. Dewey, completely revised the minimum salary schedule for teachers whereby teachers would receive a minimum of $2,000 in schools outside cities of 100,000 population or more, and $2,500 for schools in cities of more than 1,000,000. Teachers with a Master's Degree would receive a minimum of $2,200 for schools in small population areas and a minimum of $2700 for schools in cities of more than 1,000,000 population.

The Indiana Legislature has just enacted a law which provides for 1947-48 a minimum of $2,400 for teachers with a Bachelor's Degree, this sum being 81.8 per cent higher than the present salary of $1,320 for this position. A teacher with a Master's Degree and 20 years experience would receive a minimum of $3,600, which is 111.8 per cent higher than the $1,700 which is in effect for the current school year.

The State of Washington enacted a law this year assuring a minimum salary of $2,400 for qualified teachers. The state aid per teacher was more than doubled.

The new minimum salary schedule in West Virginia will raise the minimum salary for teachers with a Bachelor Degree by 1/3, the new salary being $1,800.

Dr. Ellott has recommeded that Michigan adopt a minimum salary law wherby a teacher with a Bachelor's Degree, covering four years of college training would receive a minimum of $2,400 for the school teaching year.

Dr. Elliott favors a minimum of $1,950 for a school teacher with one year of training. He suggests a differential of $150 a year for each year of training less than the base of a Bachelor's degree.

The average school years runs nine months.

The Indiana minimum salary scale for teachers, adopted by the Legislature this spring, guarantees a minimum salary of $200 a month for a teacher with two years college training and a minimum of $266 a month for a teacher with 4 years college training including a Bachelor's degree. Worked out on an annual basis, the compensation respectively is $1,800 and $2,400. The compensation increases each year until it reaches a maximum of $2,850, or $325 a month for a graduate of a college who has ten years experience.

The Indiana law gives an incentive to a teacher to attain a Master's Degree whereby at the end of 24 years experience the teacher would be receiving a total of $400 a month or $3,600 a year in compensation.

Such a salary scale, if enacted in Michigan, would go a long way towards attracting better-class teachers.

A recent national survey of the national educational spstem revealed that 350,000 teachers had left the public schools since 1940.

The Michigan Education Association last fall pointed out that Michigan in 1946 had granted sub-standard certificates to 5,000 teachers and probably lacked another 1,000 teachers to take care of children who are on half-day sessions to reduce heavy teaching loads, or to provide teachers for schools which were forced to close and transport pupils.

On a national basis it is said that 125,000 teachers, or 1 out of every 7, are now serving on an emergency or sub-standard certificate. That teaching standards have deteriorated in recent years is widely recognized.

Twenty per cent of all teachers, or 175,000, are new to their jobs each year-twice the turnover that existed before World War II.

What the Sigler administration proposes as a financial solution to the prospective deficit of $83,000,000 was to be the theme of a special message by the Governor this week.

Legislators generally are reluctant to enact any new taxes during the current session. Unless they are prodded vigorously by the Governor, the average local legislator is inclined to appropriate funds for state services and to go home, awaiting a special session of the Legislature in 1948 at which time the financial situation may be in sharper focus.

Governor Sigler has announced repeatedly that he opposes deficit financing of state public services. The alternative, of course, to such financing is the enactment of new taxes with all their accompanyiny political hazards.

Thanks!!

To the electors of Charlevoix County;

SINCERE THANKS for your support at the recent election.

I fully realize and accept the responsibility of the trust given me, and again repeat that I will do nothing wilfully to make you regret your action and everything possible to merit your continued confidence.

Circuit Judge, Elect
